Sam,

Thats great to hear. I went ahead and edited the design as requested.

In regards to the level of detail and texture in each element of the mural: The canopy will definitely match the level of detail in the tree trunk, in fact they will both have more organic and dimensional feel when the paint goes on the wall. Unfortunately my digital drawing will never be as texturally or aesthetically rich as my final product. I have been painting for 15 years, but digitally drawing for only 4. I can guarantee the composition and relative color accuracy will be consistent from sketch to final mural. But there is a limit to technology.. However, with every project I complete, the actual mural is significantly more dynamic than the sketch. And ultimately a successful mural project will require the committee to have a certain level of faith in my ability. I highly recommend reviewing my portfolio for reassurance with the execution of textures and value structures in my work.

Would it be possible for me to be involved in this next review session? It may help expedite the closing process and ease any ongoing concerns if I am able to hear the input and answer questions directly.

Let me know if is possible for the committee to set up a zoom conference call, and I would gladly jump into the discussion whenever appropriate.

Thanks,

Alex
